Chicago Tribune Gail MarksJarvis column: Plenty of options for any IRA investors

BYLINE: Gail MarksJarvis, Chicago TribuneSECTION: BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL NEWSLENGTH: 782 words

Mar. 21--It's a no-brainer to open an IRA by April 15 for tax advantages, but after the stock market trauma of the last few years, picking investments for it doesn't seem simple.

"I know I should be saving money for retirement, but I'm scared," said investor Dena Cohen. "I've been told that since I'm in my 30s, I should be in the stock market, but I don't know what to do."

That uncertainty often causes people to skip IRAs. But there are options for everyone, from those opening their first IRA to advanced investors interested in tweaking based on market conditions.

Beginners

Financial planners have not strayed from their usual advice for people in their 20s, 30s and 40s, despite the more than 50 percent decline in stocks and the subsequent 70 percent upturn.

If you have years to go before you retire, you are likely to make more money in stock funds than in CDs, said financial planner Gary Bowyer. On average, bonds gain 5.5 percent a year, while stocks return 9.4 percent. Although some years are awful, Bowyer said, gains close to the average are likely over 20 or 30 years.

His advice for people in their 20s: Choose a stock market index fund such as the Vanguard Total Stock Market Index fund (VTSMX), or a mixture of U.S. and international stocks through a fund such as T. Rowe Price Spectrum Growth (PRSGX) or Primecap Odyssey Growth (POGRX). Both are almost entirely in stocks, so if you can't stomach the full force of a market downturn, use a fund containing some bonds, perhaps the moderately conservative Vanguard LifeStrategy Moderate Growth (VSMGX). For people younger than 40 who won't be scared by stock downturns, financial planner Mark Wilson chooses LifeStrategy Growth.

Thoughtful investors

Financial planners want people to have a mixture of stocks and bonds. For someone around 40, it might be about 70 percent in stocks so money grows significantly over time and 30 percent in bonds in case the market tanks.
